A most enjoyable evening was spent by about 35 ladies at the home of Mrs. Ethel Tobin Thursday evening.

The party was to remind Mrs. Lula White of her birthday. Mrs. Ida Russell favored the company with piano solos and songs were sung by all present.

Mrs. Mae Allen, commander of Harmon review, presented Mrs. White a beautiful piece of linen from the Macabees. Mrs. White responded feelingly.

Afterwards dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Tobin. The party broke up at a late hour, wishing Mrs. White many returns of the day.

The annual fair conducted jointly by Clan Gordon, No. 12, O. S. C., and Ladies' Auxiliary was almost as good a drawing card last evening as on the opening night and a large crowd witnessed the program and patronized the various booths.

A large number remained on the floor for dancing during the evening. The program last evening was opened with a piano and violin duet by William and John Morrison, followed by the little playlet, "Her First Assignment," given by several young ladies. The farce proved to be even more enjoyable than when first given a few weeks ago and the young ladies scored a decided hit. In connection with the committee having the fair in charge should be added the following names: Grab bags, Miss Annie Barclay and Miss Theresa Duncan; raffles, Miss Loretta Dowers; refreshments, Miss Jessie Taylor; indoor golf, Alex. Cowie. The program to-night will include selections by the Zaïz troupe, instrumentalists; solo by Mrs. McHaffie, dancing numbers by the Naughton sisters and a solo by George McLeod. In order to give the dancers more time, the doors will be opened to-night at 6:30 and the concert will start promptly at 7:15. Carroll's orchestra is furnishing music for dancing.

"Can it be that the house is haunted?" mused a night patrolman of the Barre police force as he was making his usual tour one night during the past week and passing the large empty tenement house on the corner of North Main and Granite streets. Occasionally, a light flashed in the window; and tones, distinct enough to be heard across the street, came from a window in the lower part of the house. This was something unusual and, with his hand at his hip, the patrolman noted that 45 automatic, he stealthily approached the house from the Granite street side. When well onto the lawn, the low murmuring tones which he had heard became more distinct. "Please me, die, I need that kale," ejaculated a voice. "Oh, boy! the pot's boiling!" it rang out again. The bobby with the brass buttons had heard these phrases before and the supposedly haunted house, he realized, was a harbor for a group of dice manipulators. He was about to make known his presence and get into the shanty abode when a group of young lads began to emerge from their secret meeting room, one of them carrying a flashlight, bent upon going to their homes. The patrolman had arrived too late to catch them with the goods but he made special effort to notice everyone in the group. Consequently, yesterday and the day before a number of young men from the north end district were summoned to the police station for a little conference with the chief of police. They had read in the Times of the investigation, so with stories well prepared, they met the chief, some of them even attempting to inform him that the words, dice and "shooting craps," were not in their vocabularies. Quite to the contrary, argued Mr. Mitchell, and then he divulged the phrases heard the night previous, together with a few other facts gathered by sleuthing. Every one of the party was privately informed that a similar offense of this nature will cause a court action and the violators be punished severely. Since this is the first time the police have had occasion to advise anyone in this gambling diversion in this city, Chief Mitchell believed the warning sufficient this time but henceforth will prosecute anyone caught in these dice games.

A COMMUNITY HOUSE.

Proposed to Be Started in Barre—The Things Needed.

An effort has been made to start a Community house on a large scale in Barre, but on consideration it has been decided that the public was not ready for such an undertaking.

Now, a visitor in town, who happened to be an Episcopalian, Walter W. Parker, observed the house at No. 2 Spaulding street, owned by that church, standing idle and suggested that Barre should have a Community house there as the rent would be free and some place was needed for a day nursery, a girls' boarding house, a public sewing class, a home for transient poor, a dispensary and clinic, a boys' club, clothing exchange and rendezvous for informal meetings of every social service endeavor.

He broached the subject in an address to the Men's club Wednesday and was invited by all those present to remain in Barre a week and see the thing started. The church has been practically turned over to him for a week. Meetings were held on Wednesday at 10:30 and 7, on Monday at 7:30, a dinner on Wednesday at 6 o'clock; meetings also Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p. m., to which all interested are invited.

Briefly, the situation is this: A year's house rent free. Needed first-hand sewing machine, two rugs, one table, globe for gas light, chairs, front entry papered, one coal, one cord wood, linoleum, bath tub, cots, beds and bedding, cook stove, clothes horse, clothesline, pictures, periodicals, billiard table, etc.

The salary of a responsible and competent matron would need to be provided for, unless Miss Gridley could find such a person who would do the work for her rent.

But all these things can be worked out at the meetings if the interested parties and representatives from the Italians, Greeks, Spaniards and other foreign residents will attend and give the benefit of their advice.

It is expected that a Community house on a small scale will supply a need, and lead to the larger undertaking formerly contemplated. Then, when the work moves to its new quarters, the Episcopal church, though deserted, will feel that it has not lived in vain.
